JUROR'S STATEMENT

"Of course, there will always be those who look only at technique, who ask 'how,' while others of a more curious nature will ask 'why.' Personally, I have always preferred inspiration to information."

– MAN RAY

Today everyone is a photographer and everyone is a photo critic. With the plethora of images and millions of selfies and apps like Instagram and Snapchat, a photograph has to transcend to be noticed. This can also be seen as an opportunity for artists to relook at analog photography and to also experiment with the expanded digital toolbox. The digital toolbox has opened up new opportunities, new ways of seeing, thus breaking down borders and boundaries between media.

As a photo-based artist, I chose to include work that went beyond being a document. Some reflect the decisive moment, Roland Barthes "punctum" and some use technique to amplify and augment the artist's concept. It was interesting that while jurying this show I was struck by how the "quiet" images drew me in and stayed with me. For example Jessica Chevalier's whimsical photograph "Sans Instruction" and Elin Dolle's elegant and minimal "Light and Form." Also the stark intensity of Eric Hovermale's "Frances." Kelly Carrington's "Goodspeed Opera House" is an example of the ways photography is being redefined.

Jurying is subjective. I tried to keep an open mind to all genres of photography and pondered on the merits of each piece. As an artist, I know that it takes some chutzpah (my father in law has taught me Yiddish!) to enter a show. I applaud everyone who did. I often ask myself and of my students "What's the worst thing that can happen if you apply?" Yes, the answer is not getting in; but it is better than not having tried.

Congratulations to all of you and thank you to the Mystic Museum of Art, Amelia, and Gretchen for this opportunity.
