About Us

Mystic Museum of Art was founded as an artist colony led by Charles H. Davis in 1913. Mystic was one of three Connecticut artist colonies formed at this time. The presence of Davis attracted other artists to Mystic and eventually Mystic Museum of Art was founded as a hub for their activities and community engagement. The Permanent Collection at MMoA tells the story of artists who traveled to Mystic and other Connecticut towns in the late 19th and early 20th centuries for inspiration. Our galleries feature a permanent collection of these locally-significant 20th century artists as well as changing exhibitions of regional contemporary artists.

Writing activities are included in the gallery while the studio art project focuses on the idea of the written word and language.
